Some Sample Readings

To provide more opportunity for participants to direct the reading group in directions that interest them, I am not specifying the weekly readings; it is the responsibility of each week’s leaders (after week 2) to choose the readings.

But I know that it’s hard to choose readings. Here are some we found successful the last time we ran this reading group. You will also find it useful to look on the ACM CD (distributed in class) and some books on women and computing that I’ll make available. (And, of course, you can find some great stuff on the Interweb and the Library.)

An assortment of readings on job and academic trends: Taulbee survey, CNN Money on the 50 Best Jobs in America, etc.
